

A Functional Capacity Assessment evaluates a person's physical ability to safely perform certain tasks.

In combination with a worksite assessment, detailed results from a functional capacity assessment can greatly inform medical professionals and assist in sound decision making regarding medical certificate upgrades.

AnG Health Services provides both standardised and non-standardised assessments. All Functional Capacity Assessments are completed in the workplace either at the workstation or in a controlled environment or a combination of both.

AnG Health Services also offers Pre-employment functional capacity Assessments. Pre-employment functional capacity assessments can be a useful indicator of a person's physical suitability for a particular role and therefore an effective component of a solid injury prevention strategy. For more information around Pre-employment assessments please contact us.

Please do not hesitate to contact us should you require further information or alternatively complete the referral options attached.